RMF Strategies Speaks at the Bureau of Primary Health Care 2005 Meeting Nancy Hudecek Introduces the RMFS Knowledge Resource Program as an Instrument in Effective Clinical Risk Management

May 27, 2005 – CAMBRIDGE, Mass. – Nancy Hudecek, Director of Marketing at RMF Strategies, will speak at the 2005 Health Resources and Services Administration's (HRSA) Primary Health Care (PHC) All-Grantee Meeting at the Marriott Wardman Hotel in Washington, DC on Friday June 24, 2005.

During the segment “Clinical Risk Management – Increasing Health Center Awareness and Action,” Ms. Hudecek will discuss the Bureau of Primary Health Care’s implementation of the RMF Strategies Knowledge Resource Program and how it will contribute to the clinical risk management and patient safety initiatives of their health care providers.

The RMF Strategies Knowledge Resource program offers a variety of educational material:

- RMF Interactive: An online, interactive health care risk management website and library where individuals can register to access articles, participate in interactive exercises, listen to audio news and stay informed about managing risk in key target areas.
- RMF CME Online: A website where clinicians can register and participate in risk management distance learning courses focused on current problems in health care risk management while earning professional continuing education credits. The courses are designed by risk management experts using input from clinicians who are renowned leaders in the field of patient safety for each clinical specialty.
- RMF Affiliate Membership: A program that allows clients the opportunity to participate in a national community of enterprises who are committed to managing risk and improving patient safety. RMF Strategies hosts client conferences, training seminars, conduct monthly mailings of publications and multimedia educational material, and offers access to our risk management knowledge base via a private website.

This year’s theme “Weaving a Strong Safety Net,” focuses the program on providing grantees with program and policy updates, as well as networking and learning opportunities to increase the coordination and delivery of comprehensive primary health care to underserved populations. Over 1,800 participants are expected to attend the meeting, including health centers, community-based facilities, health departments, city and state organizations, and a number of other care health providers.
